Lessons from Byzantium

by Michael Auslin, 30 Apr 2012

The Byzantine Empire's long run — 1,100 years — may seem remote from the 21st century, but a reading of its history offers at least three timeless lessons. Understanding some of the fatal weaknesses in the Eastern Roman Empire may help clarify the political and economic problems that America faces today and the choices we have in responding to them...

Toss gran in an HMO

by Scott Gottlieb, 27 Apr 2012

...The latest installment of ObamaCare is a scheme that's uprooting the elderly poor and disabled who get care under Medicare, and herding many into state-run Medicaid plans. All of these folks are dually eligible for both Medicare and Medicaid; they are low-income people who are elderly or have disabilities. But it's hard to see how they'll be better off in bare-bones, and sometimes poorly-run state Medicaid plans than by getting access to Medicare options they were entitled to before ObamaCare...

The tragedies of Rwanda, Darfur and now Syria did not result from lack of information or lack of interagency coordination, but from lack of will.

Secretary of State Philanthropic Kinn said that there is at this time very little tangible evidence of Spanish aggression in the region of the North Atlantic where

Stewards Kindly Ask Middle Class Passengers To Drown

From all reports, the attempt to abandon the sinking Titanic was fraught with chaos and panic. If the first order, as passengers in the stowage class loudly strained against locked gates to reach the main deck and reacted harshly to the stewards' polite entreaties to accept the terms of drowning in the fast-moving waters. Words of an unkind and occasionally obscene nature were addressed to employees of the White Star Lines who were simply doing their duty in trying to restore order and propriety.

As a representative of the White Star office in New York explained: "The standard rescue procedure aboard all trans-Atlantic luxury liners is as follows: ladies and children of the first-class, then first-class gentlemen, followed by their pets, women's trunk portmanteaus and, finally, the lifeboat tables. Then the second- and third-class passengers are respectfully accommodated."

and definite was managed able for the third-class passengers to maintain composure, so that the rescue could proceed more smoothly overall."

WELL-TO-DO Banksters GETS HAIR DISHEVELED FOR FIRST TIME

Lady Gladstone Dunsdale Grey, a passenger aboard the ill-fated liner R.M.S. Titanic, expressed her first-ever hair-raising while being helped to a lifeboat. Lady Dunsdale-Grey, the widow of Lord Clement Dunsdale-Grey, was having a great deal of trouble getting her hair from her head. It was for the presence of a hat-pin securing the hair to Lady Dunsdale-Grey's head, the hat would have surely been lost. Loosened strands of hair brushed against her face, as Lady Dunsdale-Grey attempted to adjust her hat-pin without the assistance of her maid in waiting, who had become separated from her on the rush to the lifeboats. But there was little time, and, by the time Lady Dunsdale-Grey's lifeboat was set afloat, her shock-absorbent pompadour had fallen out of place considerably.

New York April 15. Officials of the White Star Lines have confirmed the sinking, during her maiden voyage, of the R.M.S. Titanic, the world's largest vessel, the result of a particularly eventful first voyage.

First reports of the calamity were received Monday at the London telegraph office of the White Star Lines, which owns the national enterprise.

MESSAGE FROM CAPTAIN
At 9:25 a.m. Cleveland Standard Time, the following message was received from the rescue ship Carpathia:

US Launches Pink Slime Missile at North Korea

An accident from the firm of Harland & Wolff which constructed the great ironclad, was planned and approved by the specific cause of the tragic event. The Democrats' election forgery racket

Textbooks Behaving Badly

by Ed Kaitz, 9 Apr 2012

Are academic textbooks important in deciding the fate of nations? Three of the last century's most celebrated intellectuals answered that question strongly in the affirmative...

...Today, the assault on both traditional values and the free market continues in many conventional college textbooks, making it difficult for academia's most visible minority, conservative professors, to locate ideologically balanced anthologies. In the fashionable field of ethics, for example, textbooks and anthologies tend to be saturated with a liberal edge that relentlessly grinds away at thinly presented conservative perspectives on social issues until the very final pages...

The story unravels: new questions about Trayvon Martin's final hour

by Jeff Lipkes, 9 Apr 2012

It was a fable for our times: "Once upon a time, a nice young man set off from his dad's fiancée's home before the NBA All-Star game to buy some Skittles and Arizona Tea for his stepbrother. Although the lad was seventeen, he looked like a cute twelve-year-old. Along came a burly ex-con racist vigilante who didn't like the idea of a young African-American male walking around his gated community at night..."

Democrats responsible for black culture of anger

by Lloyd Marcus, 5 Apr 2012

...FBI and U.S. Justice Dept. statistics confirm that blacks are 39 times more likely to commit a violent crime against whites than whites are to commit violence against blacks. Ninety percent of the victims of race crimes are white.

What are the consequences of the Democratic Party keeping black Americans stewing in their well-crafted culture of anger? Blacks are seven times more likely than people of other races to commit murder, and eight times more likely to commit robbery. Blacks are three times more likely to use a handgun and twice as likely to use a knife. Forty-five percent of black crime is against whites, 43 percent against other blacks, and 10 percent against Hispanics...

by George Neumayr, 3 Apr 2012

...Perversely, Cardinal Wuerl has at once violated the canonical rights of a faithful priest while inventing out of thin air a "policy" that orders his subordinates to distribute the Eucharist to anti-Catholic activists and defiant mortal sinners. In his apology to Barbara Johnson, via one of his auxiliary bishops, Cardinal Wuerl rebuked Fr. Guarnizo for a lack of "pastoral" sensitivity. Silent Scream: The Sudan ethnically cleanses its Christians

by Rob Miller, 4 Apr 2012

The government of the predominantly Muslim nation of Sudan has stripped its 500,000 to 700,000 Christians of citizenship and has put them on notice that they have one week to leave the country...

...What's notable about this is the hideous silence. There's little or nothing being reported in the media on this. For all the noise about the new Responsibility to Protect Doctrine that was evoked on Libya, the United Nations has nothing to say about what's happening in the Sudan, even though it violates the organization's own charter.

No one is talking about a no-fly zone to protect black Christians under air attack in South Sudan by the Bashir regime, even though our huge air base in Djibouti is within flying distance. The infamously misnamed U.N. Human Rights Commission is preoccupied with Israel to the point of derangement, and the Muslim countries running it will see to it that it stays that way. And President Obama is utterly silent. No speeches, no talk of sanctions or aid to the Sudan's Christians, not even any outrage expressed...not a word...

A Supremely brazen attack

by John Podhoretz, 3 Apr 2012

...Leaving aside the fact that a 219-212 vote in the House hardly constitutes a “strong majority,” the Obama assertion that it would be unprecedented for the court to find a piece of legislation unconstitutional suggests Professor Obama must have been a pretty lousy constitutional law teacher. Why do young males join gangs? Because without a father to guide and protect them, they seek physical protection from human predators as well as ratification of their masculinity from the gang.
