Alex Jones, 28 March 2015

Rick Moran has made a valiant and sincere attempt to debunk stories like those. But the best thing about his own post turns out to be comments like these:

Kevin M: Next thing the conspiracy whackos will claim is Obama is using Federal agencies like the IRS to harass his political foes.

Redhawk: This entire article seems to be an exercise in Gaslighting, trying to make us believe that is just crazy talk that what we are seeing is not what we think we are seeing when, in fact, the idea that this military exercise could be dry run training for a future martial law crack-down in this country makes perfect sense. When it is said "there would have to be a national crisis for him to declare martial law", there is little doubt that this could be arranged as a staged false flag when the time is right.

RasThavas: Those in 1933 who thought Hitler might someday start murdering large numbers of Jews were called loons too and were they ever. Calling someone a loon (or racist or birther or denier or Islamophobe) is a rather vacuous 'argument' and at base worthless. Hitler himself called those who said he might start killing Jews, as well as those who said he might invade other countries, loons.
